Stars can't shine without darkness!

Finding Love, Help* and Hope in the MOST unexpected places!

On Jan 19, 2006, NASSA launched its New Horizons explorer, on a 5 billion km trip to Pluto, and beyond! This 465kg piano sized, high tech 'package' then flew close by Jupiter, gravity boosting its speed to 83,000 KM/hr, then on July 14, 2015, after 9 1/2 years, it flew past Pluto. The distance is so vast, it took the explorer's radio waves 4 1/2 hours, travelling at the speed of light, to beam back images to our Parkes radio telescope in Australia!

But instead of a cold, dark, desolate, inhospitable landscape:-
shining back to us all, here on Planet Earth, just what did we find???

Beautiful Pluto - with its 'Heart of Hope.'

Many Suicides happen when we lose Hope, like...

- I'm never going to feel happy/stop feeling this huge emotion pain!
- I'm never going to get out of this horrible situation I'm in!
- I'm never going to find another Love, Partner/Relationship!

No matter how dark UR life may look, there's ALWAYS the potential to create a better life! It may not be easy or happen overnight, U may need some help* to find UR very own 'Heart of Hope' - but a wise man once said;

'Our darkest moments - can be our greatest gift!'
